

HEALTH ECONOMICS COLLABORATION SEMINAR

The Politics of Supply and Demand in Health Care: A World Bank Grant to Ethiopia

Kate Brennan

University of Oxford

Health Economics Collaboration:

The School of Public Health, Sydney University

The George Institute for International Health, and

The National Drug and Alcohol Research Centre (NDARC)

Date: Wednesday 23 September 2009

Time: 11am -12 noon

Where: The George Institute for International Health
Level 10, King George V Building
Missenden Rd Camperdown

RSVP: NOT REQUIRED

Kate Brennan is a Rhodes Scholar and doctoral candidate at the University of Oxford where her thesis is on the political economy of World Bank financing for health care. Kate completed her BA (Hons)/ LLB (Hons) at the University of Sydney and her M.Phil. (Distinction) in Development Studies at Oxford. She has been the Research Officer at the Global Economic Governance Programme at Oxford, is a member of the Global Health Governance Programme research team and has completed research with the Department of International Development and the Department of Public Health at Oxford on the supply of health care in countries with emerging economies. Before moving to Oxford, Kate was the Assistant Director of the Oaktree Foundation, an entirely youth run international aid organisation, and established a swimming and public health programme with the Ngukurr community of Arnhem Land. Most recently, she has worked in the office of the Deputy Prime Minister, Julia Gillard.